"When we bought our 18th-century house in San Miguel de Allende, Mexico, the master bedroom had no outdoor space, so we added this patio. It makes the bedroom feel enormous, and it's the perfect place to read, watch the sunset, or take a siesta under the jacarandas."

JEFFRY WEISMAN, INTERIOR DESIGNER

"The tiny paneled room off my living room is where I go to nap. It's got a fireplace with a tiny inglenook, and there's a nine-foot sofa nestled against a screen—like a big cradle."

GREG TANKERSLEY, INTERIOR DESIGNER

"Napping is my favorite Sunday activity. It's the only time of the week I get to enjoy my living room. I love spending the afternoon with a book on my sofa. The linen velvet is so welcoming that I always end up nodding off."

MICHAEL DEVINE, FABRIC DESIGNER

"This cozy chaise is my favorite spot to curl up with my dachsies, Ethan and Josie. In warm weather, it catches the breeze from the adjacent screened porch."

DAVID SCOTT
INTERIOR DESIGNER

"Some count sheep to go to sleep. I like to ponder all the objects in my cabinet room."
