Interior designer Carl D'Aquino and architect Francine Monaco established the progressive firm, D'Aquino Monaco in 1998. It has emerged as one of the few international design firms that still works personally with clients as a boutique firm would, but provide full architectural and interior design services. In addition to a large portfolio of residential clients, their work includes a number of hospitality and commercial corporations such as The Ritz-Carlton and La Prairie. Besides interiors, Francine and Carl are working on a Pennsylvania hotel, and are in development with S.A. Baxter to produce a hardware line. Fall 2017 marks the firm's 20th anniversary, coinciding with their move into a new, vibrant office space in Flatiron.
